Basic membership

For interested observers

Basic membership is suitable for small engineering firms that want to be ready for customer enquiries and companies that want to be connected and informed but are still unsure whether they want to dedicate themselves extensively to the topic.

You will receive

- Regular updates on non-metallic reinforcement construction methods e.g. by e-mail and/or newsletter
- Access to the protected online member area with internal information about non-metallic reinforcement construction methods
- The possibility of participating in the working groups of the C³Association
- The right to vote at general meetings
- Networking activities with stakeholders within the C³Association tailored to your needs
- Fee-paying access to all events of the C³Association

Annual subscription: 1,500 EUR*

Become a member now and enjoy the benefits.

Premium membership

For those active in the field of carbon concrete

Premium membership is suitable for companies that want to implement projects, that develop and want to offer products and/or services, that want to be closely networked in the community, that want to use the lobbying and PR activities of the C³Association and that always want to receive the latest information from the industry.

You will receive

- All the advantages of the basic membership
- Networking activities with stakeholders within and outside the C³Association tailored to your needs
- Free access to all events of the C³Association (including 1 free ticket to attend the Carbon- und Textilbetontagen (Carbon and Textile Concrete Days))
- Involvement in the committee work of the C³Association

Annual subscription: 5,000 EUR*

Supporting membership

For drivers of carbon concrete construction

Supporting membership is suitable for companies that want to be associated with carbon concrete beyond the premium membership, that want to actively shape national and international developments, that already have marketable products, that want to influence the drafting of regulations and that want to set both research and development priorities in the community.

You will receive

- All the advantages of premium membership
- Free access to all events of the C³Association (including 1 further free ticket to attend and 1 stand space at the Carbon- und Textilbetontagen (Carbon and Textile Concrete Days))
- Illustration/mention in advertising, film and social media measures
- Provision (on loan) of demonstrators of the carbon concrete construction method for advertising measures
- Preferential conditions for sponsoring events held by the C³Association and presentations of products at trade fairs, conferences and in workshops
- A seat on the board

Annual subscription: 15,000 EUR*

* plus the value-added tax applicable in the Federal Republic of Germany
